Donald Emery Tells Humorous Side of War

Mrs. H. F. Johnson was hostess for the literary meeting of the Fortnightly club January 7th. Donald Emery, son of Col. C. S. Emery, of the 7th Regiment of New York gave an informal talk of his experiences in the sporting game of war, touching only upon the humorous side. He gave highest praise to the British Tommy whose subtle humor and bulldog grit held to the last ditch. It required much fortitude to hold the line after the excitement of battle with only dull monotony save for the peppering of the Germans.

The feeling of the troops toward the Sanitary or First-aid men underwent a marked change from tolerance when in home camps to admiration and respect which increased as the troops marched across France to the line of battle, as their work began to tell in relieving the injured, and saving lives. The messenger dogs were given their place as helpers, as were the carrier pigeons whose intelligence and rapid flight made their work equal to that of the messengers. The blending of the 7th, 12th and 69th regiments proved blessings in disguise when the gentlemen laborers and roughnecks or the East side boys gave each other elements that counted for good for all.

The free hand drawings were very interesting. Lieut. Emery's modesty was conspicuous in that he never mentioned the "little service" by which he won his decorations. Light refreshments were served by the hostess and a very pleasant afternoon was spent.

President of Charities Association Reports

In the fall of 1918 I consented to serve as president of the Associated Charities for Newport with the understanding that I should serve largely as an advisory capacity rather than to undertake to do much of the field work.

Mrs. May Baker was appointed as superintendent and has served efficiently and deserves the good will of the community for her efforts. Appeal was made in December, 1918, to the churches for clothing, toys, games and also for funds, with the result that about 40 families sent in contributions. With what has been received we have been able to give assistance directly to about 20 families. The following is a report of the money received:

Feb. 10 For clothing	$3.00
Feb. 10 For clothing	2.46
Apr. 18, For transportation of patient to hospital	12.08
Jul. 14, For provisions	2.34
Oct. 29, For transportation of patient to hospital	8.42
Total	28.30

Besides those who have received aid directly in the form of provisions and clothing, we have by advice and personal supervision helped others to help themselves, which is the greatest service the Associated Charities can render.

ORIGIN OF FIRE IS NOT KNOWN

At about 4.15 p. m., Jan. 5th Mr. Covey who is an employee of the college discovered a fire well under way in the Bugbee Commercial building which is one of the most important of the group of buildings comprising Stanstead Wesleyan college.

The alarm was given at once and even before the Rock Island fire company had reached the scene, it was seen that the blaze was of alarming proportions and a general alarm was given for the Derby Line and the three companies worked for over two hours before the blaze was under control at which time the large building was completely gutted although the outside walls and most of the roof were saved.

The large number of willing workers that were quickly on the scene from the college and nearby residences were able to save a good share of the building which included the many typewriters, desks, and other school supplies, and part of the furniture of the two tenants who had apartments there; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McFadyen and Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Price and their families.

Dr. Trueman, principal of the college was in Montreal at the time and Mr. and Mrs. McFadyen were at Newport.

The origin of the fire is not known, it originating on the second floor near the staircase. The building is now in a sorry looking state, covered with ice many inches thick, inside walls, partitions and balance of furnishings in a completely changed condition.

All departments of the college opened as scheduled on Wednesday. The Bugbee furnishings that were saved were moved to Pierce Hall and reception rooms of Main Buildings, where classes will go on as usual though in a cramped condition.

Owing to the frozen condition of the burned building it will undoubtedly be late spring before alterations or repairing can be undertaken and already plans are being formed to enlarge and improve this place to accommodate the ever increasing attendance, the process of repairing will take this form of enlargement at that time.

From the last issue of the Farm Bureau News.

See your community committee about a farm account book. If your community is working on this project get your book from the Farm Bureau office.

The man who bought "Oat Feed" lately thinking it was equal to bran in feeding value would do well to study the analysis of these two feeds. "Oat Feed" is higher in fibre and lower in digestibility and of little value as a concentrate for producing milk.

Recently a farmer bought some cottonseed at four dollars a ton and what the Exchange was selling cottonseed for. But a careful examination of this feed after he got it home disclosed the fact that it was "Cottonseed Feed" a 20% protein feed worth about half as much as the cottonseed meal being sold by the Exchange for $4.00 a ton here. There is no easier way to throw away money in these days than to buy feeds simply because they are cheap in price.

Some of the communities are pushing their programs hard. More and more the farmers of this county are realizing that a real live Farm Bureau is one in which all the members are taking an active part. It is not the job of the committee men to put through the projects. We shall get nothing out of the Farm Bureau if we put nothing in.

The sheep men of this county ought to be interested in the wool marketing proposition which the men in Barton and Westmore are working on. Frank Emerson of Barton is endeavoring to line up all the wool growers around that place and would like to get in touch with other communities where sheep are raised. The plan is to pool all the wool another spring and sell to the highest bidder. Men on the west side of Barton are doing this for the first four years with good results. Anyone interested in this will do well to communicate with Mr. Emerson.

Important Date in History.

On the tenth of October in 1845, the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis was opened. George Bancroft, the historian, who was then secretary of the navy, was largely instrumental in establishing the academy.
